

1. What is Budget? Discuss the nature, importance and types of budget.

A Budget is an annual financial statement prepared by the government that shows the estimated revenue and expenditure for a financial year. It is presented before the legislature for approval and acts as a tool for financial planning and control.

Nature of Budget

1. Annual Financial Statement – It is prepared every year and reflects the financial policy of the government.
2. Legal Document – It requires approval from the legislature before implementation.
3. Policy Instrument – It reflects government priorities and development goals.
4. Financial Plan – It estimates future income and expenditure.
5. Control Mechanism – It ensures proper utilization of public funds.

Importance of Budget

1. Financial Control – It controls government spending and prevents misuse of funds.
2. Economic Planning – Helps the government plan development programmes.
3. Resource Allocation – Allocates resources to different sectors like health, education and defence.
4. Accountability – Makes government accountable to the legislature and citizens.
5. Economic Stability – Helps control inflation, unemployment and economic growth.

Types of Budget

1. Balanced Budget – Revenue equals expenditure.
2. Deficit Budget – Expenditure exceeds revenue.
3. Surplus Budget – Revenue is more than expenditure.
4. Performance Budget – Focuses on performance and outcomes of government programmes.
5. Zero-Based Budget – Every expenditure must be justified from zero each year.

Conclusion

Thus, the budget is a vital tool for financial management, economic development and democratic accountability in public administration.

2. What is Globalization? Discuss the positive and negative aspects of globalization.

Globalization refers to the process of increasing economic, political, cultural and technological interaction among countries. It allows goods, services, ideas and information to move freely across national borders.

Positive Aspects of Globalization

1. Economic Growth – Expands international trade and investment.
2. Employment Opportunities – Creation of jobs through multinational companies.
3. Technological Advancement – Transfer of modern technology and knowledge.
4. Cultural Exchange – Promotes interaction between different cultures.
5. Improved Living Standards – Access to better goods, services and innovations.

Negative Aspects of Globalization

1. Economic Inequality – Benefits are not equally distributed among countries.
2. Cultural Homogenization – Local cultures may weaken due to dominant global culture.
3. Environmental Problems – Industrial growth increases pollution.
4. Exploitation of Labor – Cheap labor in developing countries may be exploited.
5. Dependence on Developed Countries – Developing nations may become economically dependent.

Conclusion

Globalization has both advantages and disadvantages, but with proper policies it can contribute significantly to economic development and international cooperation.

3. Discuss the relationship between permanent executive and political executive.

In public administration, the executive branch is responsible for implementing laws and policies. It consists of political executives and permanent executives.

Political Executive

The political executive includes elected representatives such as the Prime Minister, Ministers and Cabinet members. They formulate policies and take political decisions.

Permanent Executive

The permanent executive refers to civil servants and bureaucrats who remain in office regardless of changes in government.

Relationship Between Them

1. Policy and Implementation
Political executives formulate policies while permanent executives implement them.
2. Mutual Dependence
Ministers depend on bureaucrats for administrative expertise, while civil servants depend on ministers for political direction.
3. Continuity in Administration
Political executives may change after elections, but permanent executives ensure continuity.
4. Advisory Role
Civil servants advise ministers on technical and administrative matters.
5. Accountability
Political executives are responsible to the legislature, while permanent executives are responsible to ministers.

Conclusion

The relationship between political and permanent executives is based on cooperation, neutrality and mutual respect, which ensures effective governance.

4. What is Recruitment? Discuss the sources of recruitment in management.

Recruitment is the process of searching for and attracting qualified candidates to fill job vacancies in an organization.

Sources of Recruitment

1. Internal Sources

Recruitment from within the organization.

Examples:

- Promotion
- Transfer
- Internal advertisement

Advantages

- Motivates employees
- Saves time and cost
- Employees already know the organization

2. External Sources

Recruitment from outside the organization.

Examples:

- Employment exchanges
- Campus recruitment
- Advertisement in newspapers
- Recruitment agencies
- Online job portals

Advantages

- Brings new ideas and skills
- Wider choice of candidates
- Helps organizational growth

Conclusion

Both internal and external recruitment sources are important for selecting efficient and capable employees for organizational success.

5. What is E-Governance? Discuss the importance of E-Governance in the 21st century.

E-Governance refers to the use of information and communication technology (ICT) by government institutions to provide services, exchange information and improve governance.

1. Transparency :- Reduces corruption and increases openness in government activities.
2. Efficiency :- Improves speed and efficiency of public services.
3. Accessibility :- Citizens can access government services online anytime.
4. Cost Reduction :- Reduces administrative costs and paperwork.
5. Citizen Participation :- Encourages greater participation in democratic processes.
6. Improved Service Delivery :- Services such as online tax payment, digital certificates and e-tendering become easier.

6. Short Note on Conflict Management :- Conflict Management refers to the process of handling disputes or disagreements between individuals or groups in an organization in a constructive way.

Causes of Conflict

- Differences in interests
- Communication gaps
- Competition for resources
- Personal differences

Methods of Conflict Management

1. Negotiation – Parties discuss to reach a mutually acceptable solution.
2. Mediation – A third party helps resolve the conflict.
3. Compromise – Both parties make concessions.
4. Collaboration – Working together to find a win-win solution.

Importance :- Maintains organizational harmony , Improves teamwork , Enhances productivity

7. Discuss the functions and need of specialists in administration.

In modern public administration, specialists are experts who possess professional knowledge in specific fields such as economics, engineering, medicine, agriculture, technology and finance. With the growth of welfare states and complex governmental activities, the role of specialists has become very important.

Need of Specialists in Administration

1. Technical Knowledge
Modern administration deals with complex technical matters like infrastructure development, public health and environmental protection. Specialists provide the necessary technical expertise.
2. Efficient Decision Making
Specialists help administrators make better and scientifically sound decisions.
3. Implementation of Development Programs
Large development programs require technical planning and execution, which specialists can provide.
4. Improving Administrative Efficiency
Specialists increase the efficiency and quality of government services.
5. Support to General Administrators
General administrators depend on specialists for expert advice in specific fields.

Functions of Specialists

1. Advisory Role :- They advise policymakers and administrators on technical and professional matters.
2. Planning and Research :- Specialists participate in planning government programs and conducting research.
3. Implementation of Policies :- They help implement policies related to their field of expertise.
4. Training and Guidance :- They guide and train administrative staff in technical matters.
5. Problem Solving :- Specialists help solve complex administrative and technical problems.

Conclusion

Thus, specialists play a crucial role in modern administration by providing technical knowledge, efficiency and professional guidance to ensure effective governance.

8. What are the impacts of Good Governance on traditional Public Administration?

Introduction

Good Governance refers to the process of governing in a way that is transparent, accountable, participatory, efficient and responsive to citizens' needs. It has significantly transformed traditional public administration.

Impacts of Good Governance on Traditional Public Administration

1. Transparency in Administration
Good governance promotes openness in government activities and decision-making.
2. Accountability
Public officials are held responsible for their actions and performance.
3. Citizen Participation
Citizens are encouraged to participate in decision-making and policy formulation.
4. Efficiency and Effectiveness
Administrative processes become more efficient and result-oriented.
5. Use of Technology
Good governance promotes the use of digital technologies such as e-governance.
6. Decentralization of Power
Power is distributed to local governments to ensure better service delivery.
7. Focus on Public Service
Administration becomes more citizen-oriented rather than authority-oriented.

Conclusion

Good governance has modernized traditional public administration by making it transparent, participatory, accountable and efficient.

9. Discuss the features of multinational companies.

Introduction

Multinational Companies (MNCs) are large business organizations that operate in more than one country. They manage production, marketing and business activities at an international level.

Features of Multinational Companies

1. International Operations
MNCs operate in several countries and have branches worldwide.
2. Large Scale Business
They have large financial resources and operate on a global scale.
3. Advanced Technology
MNCs use modern technology and management techniques.
4. Centralized Control
The headquarters controls major decisions while branches operate in different countries.
5. Global Marketing
Their products and services are marketed internationally.
6. Huge Investment
MNCs make large investments in different countries.
7. Employment Generation
They provide employment opportunities in host countries.

Conclusion

Multinational companies play an important role in international trade, economic growth and technological development in the global economy.

10. What is Executive? Discuss its types.

Introduction

The Executive is the branch of government responsible for implementing laws and policies. It administers government activities and ensures that laws passed by the legislature are properly executed.

Types of Executive

1. Political Executive

Political executives are elected representatives such as President, Prime Minister and Ministers. They are responsible for policy formulation and political leadership.

2. Permanent Executive

Permanent executives are civil servants or bureaucrats who work in government departments and remain in office regardless of political changes.

3. Nominal Executive

The nominal executive is the formal head of the state who performs ceremonial functions, such as the President in parliamentary systems.

4. Real Executive

The real executive exercises actual powers in government, such as the Prime Minister and Council of Ministers.

5. Single Executive

In this system, executive power is concentrated in one person, such as the President in the USA.

6. Plural Executive

Executive power is shared by a group of individuals, such as in Switzerland.

Conclusion

The executive is an essential part of government that ensures effective administration and implementation of laws in a democratic system.